

From MC to TFA

Manhattan College senior Erin LeRoy was recently accepted into Teach for America, a program that trains teachers and then sends them to low-income schools.

An English education major with a minor in music, Ms. LeRoy will begin training in June and will teach English in the Mississippi Delta by August or September.

"It was on my first trip to New Orleans that I fell in love with the South and I knew I wanted to return to teach," Ms. LeRoy, who volunteered in NOLA twice with Manhattan College, said in a statement.
